“(5) Studies in a study programme may be interrupted, even repeatedly. Permission to interrupt the studies is granted by the dean on the basis of an application in writing submitted before the start of the given semester of study set out in the academic calendar of CTU. The dean will grant the request if the period covered by the application is part of the recognized period of parenthood of the student. The dean may, upon their own motion, interrupt a student’s studies for the following reasons:

- a) If it is necessary in order to avert an imminent harm to the student, provided it did not originate in connection with the previous fulfilment of study requirements,

“(6) The minimum period of interruption of studies is one semester; in exceptional cases the period of interruption of studies may be shorter. Studies cannot be interrupted when the regular date and the retake date of the state final examinations are held in the course of one semester. During the interruption, the person does not have a student status. In the course of the instruction period or the examination period, studies may be interrupted only for serious reasons. Also interruption of studies cannot be granted in case a justified concern exists that, after resuming the studies after an interruption, the student’s studies would be terminated pursuant to Section 56, Para 1 (b) of the Act and Article 34, Para 7 (b). The decision of the dean concerning the interruption of studies is regulated by Section 68 of the Act. The dean’s decision in writing is recorded in the CTU electronic information system and is filed in the student’s documentation. The decision on the interruption of studies includes the date of the start of the interruption of studies, the date of the end of the interruption of studies, and the date of re-enrolment in studies.”.
